

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

pedigrees of the Clervaux of York city; and Croft and Cawton in Rirkmondshire, and Darlington, co. yol.; and of their representatives the Chantors of Croft and Butterby.

No. i.—Clervaux.

Where not otherwise stated, this pedigree is on the authority of the Clervaux Cartulary at Clervaux Castle, and J. Brough Taylor's Copy of Glover's Visitation of Yorkshire.

Arms.—A lion rampant. Seal, 1349.

Sable, a saltire or. Worn by the later Clervaux, and probably in right of Cawton, this being the coat on the standard of Conan son of Elias, a former owner, at his station on Richmond Castle. In Glover's Ordinary (J. B. Taylor's copy) the saltire is reversed, for 'Clervaux de Ebor.—of Croft.' and in another shield of 'Clervaux' they are as usual, with the addition of a black eagle in the centre. A radically distinct coat, argent, two bars sable, in chief three mullets pierced of the last, is in the same collection ascribed to Clervaux, Clervaux, and with the mullets not pierced, for 'Clervallia.' In the Heraldic Dictionary, the usual coat with a silver mul et in chief occurs for Clervaux of Yorkshire.

Crest.—A demi-eagle displayed. Croft Hall, 15th cent.

A heron or crane in two positions. In the illuminated family roll it is azure, beaked or, combed gules; a facsimile of this example is given in the margin. Of the following seals, the first is that of Henry Chaytor, brother to the baronet, in 1673, the other two were used by Henry Chaytor, the baronet's son, 1713. The last has evidently belonged to one of the later Clervaux, and perhaps is the signet of the ring alluded to by the loyal baronet in his distress. "Mr. Brockly lent me a guinea, 11. 1s. 6d. I gave in pawn my wedding ring and old Clervaux ring, to pay the guinea in fourteen days. I gave my son Harry of it 15s. 6d."

Motto.—FORTUNE LE VEIT. (Tomb of Ric. Clervaux, Croft.) Did the golden ring of slender form, just meted for a lady's use, and found in the pocket of Butterby, 1827, belong to Elizabeth Clervaux, and refer to the motto of her house? It was chased on the exterior, and, within, it bore—'No foe to fortune.'

Badge.—A muzzie.—(Richard Clervaux's tomb in Croft Church.)

Robert de Clervall, mentioned in the royal charter to his son.—Glover begins with him, and calls him 'Knight.' The earlier fictions = .....

Also granted all his lands in marisco in villa Ebor. to his brother John. Acquired lands in Moleby (near Croft).

John Clervaux, = Eleanor, dr. of sir Alexander Percy (Glover), for whom the impalement with Clervaux, Or, Sloenged conjoined in a fess sable, in a window in the old Clervaux mansion at Croft in 1666, was intended. In 1364, John Clervaux, of Croft,
granted to William de Newport, parson of Spof-
ford, and Henry de Percy, valet, a mess, and six oxg. offland in Irtton, juxta Senore. Dated at Spofford. (Ex Cartulario, penes Carolum Fairfax, 74. Dodsworth, 19.)

John Fyton confirmed the manor of East Con-ton to John, s. Will. Clervaux, of Croft, in 1324, and in 1345 it was found by his wife hold that John Clervaux and Isabella his wife hold the manor of Temple Conton, as it is then called, and that Cecily, widow of John Fyton, had dower, which the sheriff was ordered by the king to see that said John and Isabella paid.
In temp. Ric. II. these possessions are mentioned as being held by John Clervaux, and anciently by Conan, son of Elias. Conan was living temp. Stephen, and gave the church to Bridlington Priory. The Fyttons held them as early as 1240, when they had a free chantry in the chapel of St. James. The picture of the Castle of Richmond (Hart. MS. 4219.2) said to be of the time of Edw. I., gives 'Sable, a saltire or,'
as the standard at the station of Conan, son of Elias, near the court of the tower, on the east part, at the outside of the wall.
As the former arms of Clervaux were a lion rampant, the sal-tire probably went along with the estate, as 'feudal arms,' or
'arms of succession.'

Sir John Clervaux = Beatrix, dr.
of Croft, knight of sir John
of the chamber de Maulever
of Richard II. ever (Glo-

enged conjoined in a fess sable, in a window in
the old Clervaux mansion at Croft in 1666, was intended. In 1364, John Clervaux, of Croft,
granted to William de Newport, parson of Spof-
ford, and Henry de Percy, valet, a mess, and

by grant of John Walmyr. [John de Walmyr, a bourgeois

[Facsimile Conclusion of Clervaux Cartulary.]

Bo. ii. Chaytor.

right of Eleanor, daughter and heiress of Piers Chaytor, of Newcastle.

"TO ALL AND SINGULAR, as well nobles and gentils as others, etc. William Flower, esquire, alias Norrey, King of Armes of the east, west, and north parties of England, from the river of Trent, northward, South, grete, etc. FOR AS MUCH as anciently from the beginning, the valiant and virtuous and as of excellent names have been commended to the world and posterity with sundry monuments and remembrance of their goodly descent; Amongst the which the chiefest and most usual hath ben the bearinge of arms in shields called Armes, beinge some other things then evidences and demonstrations of prowesse and valour diversly distributed according to the qualities and descentes of the persons meritinge the same; To the intent that such as by their vertue do able to the advancement of the common weale the alyne of their gode lyfe and conversation, may therefore rejoyce due honor in their byres and also deriue and enuyen the same successively in their posterity for ever. Nowe the which noble Christopher Chaytor, of Butterley, in the countie of Derby, beinge one who of longe places of honor admitted, reputed, and taken in the fellowship, soules, and countie of other gentils IN CONSIDERATION whereof, and for further declaration of the worthynesse of the sayde Christopher Chaytor, and at the instant request, I the sayd Norrey Kinge of Armes, by power, etc., have assigned, etc., unto the sayd Christopher Chaytor, these arms and crest followinge: That is to say; the field party per bend ended argent and azure, three cinque foyle counterchanged. Upon a helme a crest and the other azure; Monieled gentles; dexter and arges; as more playnly may appere depicted in this mar- gent. WHICH arms, etc., I, etc., ratify, etc. IN WITNESSE whereof, I, etc., have signed these pre- sentes with my hande, and setts thereto the seale of myne armes and of myne office the xxviii day of Octobre, in the yere of our Lord God a thousand five hundred seventy and one, and of the reigne, etc.—I may William Flower, alias Norrey Kinge of Armes." I seal of Flower and the King of Armes in the north parts. The grant contains Flower's portrait in heraldic dress on the initial letter, and the Tudor rose, with an illuminated running scroll. — Either the grant merely confirms a coat worn before (and from its simplicity, this was probably the case), or the descendants of Christopher Chaytor, who by sheltered themselves under it. The Sandersons of Newcastle and Brancepeth quartered such arms by grant is exhibited in the left cut.

There also occurs "a patent to William Chaytor, of Croft Hall, in the co. of York, living Ao. 1614, the sonne of Christopher Chaytor, of Butterby, in the bishopricke of Durham, which Christopher married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Clavauk, of Croft Hall, in co. Ebor," by R. St. George, Norrey, 12 July, 1612. ARMS.—Azure, a chevron ermine, inter three annulets argent, on a chief or three martlets gules, Chaytor, quartering, Sable, a saltire or, Clavauk. CREST.—On a wreath, a crane proper, capped gules.—(Coke's Dockets, H. Radcliffe, and Chaytor MSS.) This conceit of the knight does not appear to have had any extended time of grace, and I have not detected the new coat on any one document. The crane was of course the crest of Clervaux borrowed for the nonce. The cut shows the crane at rest, as in a rough sketch of the new arms in the Chaytor MSS., but the heralds ascribe a heron statant proper as a second crest of Chaytor.

In the Visit. 1613, Chaytor, of Butterby, has no mark of difference assigned, but the metal in the shield is or instead of argent.

A third grant was made to the present baronetical family:—Party per bend dancettile argent and azure four quatrefoils counterchanged. CREST.—A stag's head, erased, lozenge argent and sable, armed or. in the mouth a trefail slipped, vert. MOTTO.—(from Clervaux), Fortune le veut.
